Gov. Dewey At Philadelphia

Gov. Dewey started off his campaign in Philadelphia on the right foot—and landed on the New Deal's sorest toe. There will be more steps—and there are more toes.

World war II war-boomed Mr. Roosevelt's sagging government in 1940 out of the political consequences of its abject domestic failures since 1933. War created the jobs New Deal defeatism and bureaucratic nagging had discouraged since 1933. War gave Mr. Roosevelt and his ain't-everything-awful-let's-try anything crowd its third successive crack at running the country up a blind alley. War today is the crowd's only chance to get a fourth crack at spending and electing.

Gov. Dewey is giving the New Deal no credit for the war boom. He is going to inquire pointedly whether an administration stewing in its own juice at public expense before war began shall be given a mandate to mismanage the country when the war is over—and that is the New Deal's sorest toe.

His Philadelphia speech was the prospectus for Gov. Dewey's campaign. It rang the keynote for what is coming—a two-fronted contention that the country needs a new and dynamic spirit in post-war government to restore its confidence; that Mr. Roosevelt's patchwork government is tired, quarrelsome and on the wrong track for the problems it couldn't handle before the war and would have to grapple with again if continued for a fourth term.

Gov. Dewey says he will tell exactly what he proposes to do as the campaign gets into full stride—and he will. That is his way of doing things. Being specific is his political specialty. He does not like about one thing Thursday night. He does not like the demobilization plans now in the works, and it must have been fear he would say so which prompted the War department to beat him to the punch with a sneak preview.

There will be a lot of that sort of thing as November approaches. Against Gov. Dewey will be mustered all the tricks and dodges of the cynical bitter-enders who long ago decided what this country needs is themselves forever, and the last one on the payroll is a sissy.

They will fight hard because they know Gov. Dewey has a good chance to unseat them. They know it, he knows they know it, and the whole country knows they both know it. Gov. Dewey has the vision and the confidence, and they have their string to play out. That's the contest, and it begins to shape up like a humdinger. It's not much longer till election day, but the remaining weeks will seem like an interminable squat on a hot spot for the New Dealers, radicals and captive Democrats charged with the duty of guarding all the other sore toes that Tom Dewey will jump on.

Third Man

It is evident as the presidential campaign gets warmed up that the three most prominent names in it are going to be Franklin D. Roosevelt, Thomas E. Dewey and Sydney Hillman—and a visitor from Mars might wonder how the third man got in there. He isn't running for anything.

Mr. Hillman is the successor to Rexford G. Taggart, Tom Corcoran and Harry Hopkins in the role of New Deal symbol. They never ran for anything, either, but each became, in his turn, the personality who seemed to be the embodiment of what the New Deal stood for at a given time—the original brain trust, the "hit-em-in-the-jugular" reign of the New Deal lawyers, the spend-and-spend-and-elect-and-elect school and now the left-wing labor leader with an organization and financial resources that make him the most potent individual in Mr. Roosevelt's political circle.

It is becoming plainer each day, moreover, that while Mr. Hillman isn't running, he nevertheless has a great personal stake in the outcome. If Mr. Roosevelt wins, the victory will be shared with Mr. Hillman. As Gov. Bricker pointed out in his speech last Saturday night accepting the Republican party's vice presidential nomination, "clearing things with Sydney" has become standard practice with Democratic politicians—one statement they will not be likely to deny.

News Blackout

Rep. Fulbright's proposal of a congressional resolution favoring international agreements guaranteeing free and equitable exchange of news is more than a formality. The author of the now famous Fulbright resolution on an American policy of international cooperation for peace has a purpose in mind which many men have believed in devoutly for years.

The truth can make all men free. That is the dream. It will not be realized in a generation. After a century and a half, free speech and a free press in the United States still have not reached the highest aspirations of their constitutional guarantors. It would take years of trial with the same broad policy in international affairs to curb the spoilers who thrive on the people's ignorance.

The people, themselves, would need to learn how to use information for their own advantage. The lifting of a news blackout in those countries which never have known anything else—Japan, for instance—would bring nothing but confusion at first. But ultimately, an informed public would begin to find its own way. It is one of the noblest dreams of mankind, and Rep. Fulbright has earned credit for trying to bring it a step closer to reality.

Robot Bomb From London

Recent reports of UNRRA, the international relief organization, being on its last legs for lack of something useful to do in Europe, forgot to take into account the resourcefulness of men charged with the high duty of redistributing American wealth.

UNRRA has revealed in London that it hopes to prime the European pump with raw materials available to it through its Washington connections. These materials will be used for manufacture to prevent a repetition of the commodity vacuum into which goods from the United States rushed after World War I. UNRRA hopes to bring in enough raw materials to enable European manufacturers to shut out imports from the United States. "The international machinery offered by UNRRA," its London organization was quoted as saying in a press interview published by The New York Times, "seems to be the only means by which the industrial machine of Europe can be primed."

UNRRA does not add this, but it may be taken for granted, that some of the pump-primed goods eventually would be offered for sale in the United States, thereby giving the European manufacturers not only the raw material but the selling price of the goods. That would be pump-priming de luxe.

The Stars Say

For Tuesday, Sept. 12.

THE SIDERAL operations for this day indicate quite lively conditions, with much promise for the attainment of worth-while objectives. These concern promotion, increased prestige and credit, and many phases of business and professional progress and production, yet the emphasis seems to be on personality, charm, social, domestic and affectional relationships. There may be decisive initiative on these, possibly to offset the antagonism or want of approval from elders or family relations. With discretion and tact there should be definite benefits, with personal satisfactions and happiness. Use finesse.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of progress, promotion, the eventual fulfillment of aspirations and ambitions, after several annoying and frustrating situations, probably from elderly relatives or other family interference, although employers and supervisors are friendly, disposed and cooperative. While business and professional interests are under flourishing signs, yet the main activities are focused on purely personal desires, with social, domestic or romantic objectives. These may be happily attained by prudent, tactful manipulation and the safe and sane maintenance of emotional balance. Be circumspect.

A child born on this day may have many diversified talents in business and professional channels, as well as in art, literature and other creative expression.

A chemistry professor claims that radio commercials are destroying America's faith in nutrition. We'll go a step further. We also think they're ruining the national digestion and raising the general blood pressure through listeners' frustrated vexation. And the singing variety have certainly set back the American love of music 20 years.

Medical Problem of 'Phantom Limb'

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.
WE MUST prepare ourselves for the sight of many of our young friends returning with mutilations of one kind or another. The man with an amputated leg or arm may experience and probably will tell you of what seems to him a peculiar feeling as if the lost limb were still there. This is known as "phantom limb."

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

This is not a new subject in medical science. It is as old, I am sorry to say, as warfare. After every war the world is exposed once more to the sad experience of knowing about it in wholesale quantity. Ambrose Pare, the stout old military surgeon of the French wars, of Francis the First, and Charles IX, described it first in 1551. Dr. Weir Mitchell, the famous neurologist of Philadelphia, studied the symptom in our Civil War soldier casualties, and to him we owe most of our knowledge of these phenomena.

In about 95 per cent of all cases the patient with an amputation feels the sensation as if the limb were still there. In most instances it goes away in time. It is disappearing, of course, to the extent of carrying the sensations from the skin and periphery of the limb and even if they are severed any stimulation of them arouses only the same old sensations they have always been in the habit of carrying. Amputations of the arms carry greater conviction that the limb is still there than of the legs.

Feeling of Abnormality
The sensation is usually painless, but even so there is a feeling of abnormality. But sometimes it is quite painful. In such cases there is a curling in of the nerve end in healing and these "neuromata" may have to be injected with alcohol.

The sensations besides pain felt in the phantom are itching, warmth, throbbing and cramping and these are sufficiently uncomfortable to say the least.

One very strange feature of the condition of phantom limb whether it is painful or not is that the phantom is always felt as if it were in exactly the position it was in at the time of amputation. "It is as if the postural model had become frozen when normal stimulation ceased."

Since the beginning of our present wartime experience with this type of casualty a great deal of study has been put on it by neurological surgeons and it is expected that more satisfactory explanations of the phenomenon and more satisfactory treatment of the serious complications, such as severe pain, will ensue. Up to the present the treatment has not been very satisfactory. It is the practically unanimous opinion of all surgeons that re-amputation, or cutting off the stumps of the painful nerves consistently fails to relieve the pain and other symptoms.

Since attempts at relief at the peripheral site—the stump—have failed, the latest research has been to approach the problem by examining the central nervous system. Dr. Gutierrez-Mahoney treated one patient by removing the part of his brain which received the sensation from the painful limb with complete success. Such measures even though drastic may have to be employed in drastic situations.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

B. L.: What is the meaning of the saying—"One hour of sleep before midnight is worth five hours of sleep after midnight?"

Answer: This saying has no scientific foundation.

M. E.: What causes moles? Is there any way to stop them or any way to control them? I never used to have them, but in the last two years I have been bothered with them.

Answer: There are many different kinds of moles. Presumably you are referring to the small pigmented moles that may come in numbers in middle-aged persons, at the menopause in women, and after childbirth. In the opinion of most dermatologists they should be removed either by excision or refrigeration or X-ray or endothermy.

E. W.: What is the cause and cure of infectious dandruff?

Answer: Pityriasis capitis is the scientific name for infectious dandruff. Simple forms may be treated by an ointment containing salicylic acid 5 grains, ammoniated mercury 30 grains and ointment of rose water one ounce. Put on the scalp thoroughly Saturday night and scrub the next morning with soft warm water and green soap.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

A Salem Lady Spit

Up Acid Liquids For Hours After Eating

For hours after every meal, a Salem lady used to spit up a strong, acidulous liquid mixed with pieces of half-digested food. She says it was awful. At times she would nearly strangle. She had stomach bloating, daily headaches and constant irregular bowel action. Today, this lady eats her meals and enjoys them. And she says the change is due to taking ERB-HELP. Her food agrees with her. No gas, bloating or spitting up after eating. She is also free of headaches now, and bowels are regular, thanks to this Remarkable New Compound.

ERB-HELP contains 12 Great Herbs; they cleanse bowels, clear gas from stomach, act on sluggish liver and kidneys. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering. Get ERB-HELP. Lease Drug Stores, State and Lincoln Sts.

"There's a telephone in the house where I am moving Can you

connect it for me?"

In days of ample telephone facilities, when someone moved, we left the telephone in place so that it might be connected for the next person moving in.

Today it is a different story. There is a serious shortage of the many items which go to make up telephone service, including telephone instruments. Production of all telephone equipment was stopped to enable the manufacturers to go into full war production.

As a result, subscribers' unfilled orders are mounting daily. Many persons will be required to do without service for the duration—and longer as the end of the war will not solve our problem. Telephones in vacant houses or apartments must be recovered and installed elsewhere for someone on our waiting list. The only fair way is to give every one service in his proper turn.

Every telephone, which is recovered and put back into service, brings your installation closer. Your co-operation in aiding our installers to remove left-in instruments enables us to use all available facilities efficiently. Thanks for your help.

THE REST OF MY LIFE WITH YOU

by Faith Baldwin

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

Matthew returned to Judith. He asked, "What's the big idea?"

"I slipped. Gosh, my head hurts!"

"It will for a while. You must stay in bed, be quiet."

"I don't want to."

"There is such a thing as regret, you know, and I shall issue certain orders to Miss Meredith. Not that it won't be highly unethical."

"She said, 'I was good of you to me.'"

"You wanted me, didn't you?"

"There was a long silence. 'Yes,' said Judith, and turned her head. The ice bag slipped and he covered it. His hands were skillful and gentle."

Matthew said, "Try to sleep."

He moved away to consult Miss Meredith to learn from her what the orders had been given.

He was quietly leaving the room when Judith spoke. "You're going?"

"I really," he told her, "I'll be here for the rest of the night in case you need me."

He went out, shutting the door softly, and another door opened. The corridor. Mary looked out and called him. She said, as he reached her, "I wish you'd have any look at Ella. She won't have anything to do with Dr. Morrow, told me she looks like a codfish."

Ella was in bed, she had been crying. Matthew went in and took her hand. Her pulse was rapid. She said, with the hoarseness which followed weeping, "Sorry to be such a bother, but when they carried her up to the pool—You see, I never had any children. I didn't realize that—"

"Of course," cut in Matthew. Look here, Judy's got a slight concussion. She'll stay in bed and be watched and all that, and soon she'll be well, after which she may have a headache for while. But I anticipate nothing further. Dr. Morrow knows his job, he didn't do anything but his two eyes and a hands to tell him that she'll be right as rain in no time. But as for you, my girl," he added cheerfully, "you rate a sedative and a good sleep. By the way, can you provide me with a bed and a pair of pajamas?"

Ella giggled. "I like you.... I don't care if I wouldn't."

"Good," said Matthew.

"And as long as I haven't a doctor, I really like, that is, not in the least way—"

Matthew interrupted with "That's my job. I came out to drum up trade." He winked at his mother.

"Pajamas!" said Ella. "Herbert brought—"

Eva knocked and came in, and he said fretfully, "Eva, where in the world have you been?"

"Waiting."

"Find Dr. Norman a room, he's due to stay."

"I'll about five-thirty," supplemented Matthew. "I'm due at the hospital at eight."

His mother said, "I'll have breakfast for you.... then you won't disturb anyone. I know you'd rather stay tonight."

Matthew opened his bag and produced some pellets. He gave them to Eva with instructions, "for Mrs. Loring," he said, "and one wouldn't do you any harm." He took Ella's hand and smiled at her.

Returning to Judith's room, Miss Meredith admitted him with a finger on her lips. Judith was asleep. He stood by the bed and looked down at her. She looked not at all like the girl in the white bathing suit who had sat up at the edge of the pool, whose blue eyes had blazed at him....

He had her wrist, his finger on her pulse. He put her hand down on the counterpane and told Miss Meredith that he would be within call. His room, he had learned, was just next door.

When he left, his mother was waiting for him. She said, "You must be tired."

"Never felt better. Poor kid, she might have had a fracture out of this!"

They went downstairs to the butler's pantry and there watched her son consume chicken, tongue, sandwiches, and a bottle of beer. She said, "It was absurd to drag you up here, but she asked for you, and Ella was frantic. Eva, too, out she controlled herself. I don't suppose Ella ever realized how much Judith means to her, until now."

Matthew rejoined, "I didn't mind. Looks as if I'd a new patient out of it too," he added calmly. "Not that there's anything too wrong with Mrs. Loring except glands and over-indulgence."

Mary rose. "I'll go back to the cottage."

"I'll take you over."

"Don't bother," said his mother. "It's just a step. Judith might need you; besides, Ella might take it into her head to call you."

Going through the vast dining room, beside her, he paused suddenly to ask, "What did happen, exactly?"

Jimmy Treadway came over after you left. He had a gang with him and they went swimming."

"Hasn't he a pool of his own?"

"Two, but it appears that he called Judith and asked her to join them in a swimming party and she refused, so the mountain came to Mohammed."

"How nice!"

"There wasn't anything out of the way," Mary went on, "except that Jimmy and a couple of the others had been drinking and there was a sort of roughhouse and in the general confusion Judith slipped—"

"Or was pushed?"

"I didn't see it," said Mary, "none of us did. Eva had gone to bed; Ella was in bed too, reading. As far as I could discover, she was thrown by accident, and so hit her head."

"Who threw her?"

"Jimmy Treadway, I think. He was frantic. Raved on about ambulances, hospitals, brain specialists. He was nearly out of his mind. He kept saying, 'Judy, speak to me,' until some one shoved him and we finally got his gang to take him away. He's phoned at ten-minute intervals. Not, however, since you came, so I hope we are rid of him until tomorrow."

Matthew went out on the steps with her. Mary produced a little flashlight and switched it on. She reached up to kiss his cheek, saying, "Do get a good sleep. We all feel better because you are here."

He watched the little light go down the path, flicker around a bush, turn a corner and disappear. Matthew went upstairs and to the room allotted him. Very super-colossal. Many windows, a great wide swan bed, chaise longue, deep chairs, fancy radio, and a huge, gleaming bathroom. Ella does herself well, said Dr. Norman to himself, almost dropping a shoe but remembering in time.

On the bed lay a pair of rather small, very chaste pajamas and a safety razor and a tube of cream. Matthew viewed the pajamas with academic interest and threw them on a chair. He slept until a little past five when he woke without benefit of alarm clock.

Matthew turned the alarm switch off and lay there, blinking, trying to orient himself. Villa Capri. His mother, Judith, next door. No one had called him all night.

Judith had slept while Nurse Meredith sat beside her. Twice she had awakened only to sleep again. On each occasion she had asked drowsily, "Is Matthew here?" and Miss Meredith had replied, "Yes, Miss Lambert, Dr. Norman is just next door." And had raised the eyebrows of her mind, but not in disapproval.

Matthew got up and stretched. He went softly to his streamlined bathroom and behind its glass doors the shower thundered over him. He dressed rapidly and soon knocked on Judith's door.

Miss Meredith admitted him. The patient was asleep. She looks sixteen, he thought. He wished Treadway was there, he would like to knock him down.

Nurse Meredith's report was brief and unalarming. Matthew went over to put his finger Judith's wrist. "She'll do," he said, adding that he understood Dr. Morrow would be in, early.

He went quietly from the room but Eva was there in the corridor, in a silk robe.

"She's fine," announced Matthew quickly. "I am sure there is no cause for anxiety. Your difficulty will be to keep her quiet. If Dr. Morrow hasn't suggested a day nurse, you might. It would come a little better from you than from me as I haven't any business on this case," he reminded her, smiling.

"Indeed you have," contradicted Eva. "She wanted you; we all did. Thank you for coming, Matthew."

"I'll come back, first chance I get. In a day or two anyway.... if the office slackens. And you can call me anytime. Tell Judy to behave herself and I'll be seeing her socially pretty soon. How is Mrs. Loring?"

"She's sleeping—and she thinks you're quite wonderful."

"I am," he agreed, "but few appreciate it," and laughing a little, ran down the stairs, his bag in hand, and over the bright lawns toward the salt-box.

Great Lakes Vessels Carry Record Ore Loads These Days

Strange patterns of light and dark brighten unloading docks as huge clam buckets dip into the hold of an ore freighter. This time exposure captures the rhythm of operations which continue on a steady 24-hour schedule.

By JACK H. PIRNBAUM
NEA Staff Correspondent

ABOARD A GREAT LAKES ORE CARRIER—Below decks there is enough rich, red, crumbly ore to make a completely equipped super destroyer and several hundred big M-4 tanks. And this freighter, the J. H. Hillman, Jr., commissioned last year, is only one of more than 700 huge carriers delivering ore from Minnesota's great Mesabi iron ranges to the industrial valleys of the lower lake ports.

An army of 12,700 men is doing a vital war job on the Great Lakes this year. Their goal is an all-time record season in which they hope to deliver 192,000,000 tons of ore to the steel mills. Highest previous record was 172,000,000 tons shipped in 1942. In addition, the Great Lakes fleet includes colliers, grain carriers, tankers and stone carriers.

Monotonous Trip

Our trip, from Duluth to Cleveland, has been a monotonous three-day and three night voyage covering 1,000 miles of territory. Every one, from Capt. Edmund Carleton to the porter, 16-year-old Tony Ciacci, is glad we're nearing port—even though the ship will be heading up the lakes again five hours after docking in Cleveland.

By the time the Hillman is inside the breakwater, hatch covers have been unbattened, night lights have been moved to positions along the starboard railing, and winches and cables have been greased in preparation for swift unloading. At 2:30 o'clock in the morning, the giant freighter is eased into her berth in front of a four-element Hulett unloader, whose clam buckets wait, poised in mid-air.

The huge buckets can take 17 tons of ore in one bite. Ships and unloaders are on a round-the-clock basis, for they're serving round-the-clock mills and round-the-clock fighters.

Take Pride In Work

Some crew members, off watch, are in the gleaming galley, sipping hot coffee and munching cold meats, eggs, sandwiches, fruits, cake and desserts which cook Marie Dillner puts out for them between meals. Meanwhile, a coal refueling scow comes alongside to refill the Hillman's coal hold for another week. A "bumboat," serving as a general store, pulls up, and crewmen can purchase cigarettes, candy, writing paper, and any comforts they need. No time at all is lost anywhere in the shipping or vital war cargoes.

Crews of lake carriers take pride in the work they are doing and in their ships. They face the monotony of continuous travel, get ashore for a few hours perhaps once a month; and work every day, including Sunday. Their leisure hours are confined to poker, cribbage and reading or brushing up on engineering or navigation texts.

Gripes are few, however. They know that when the ore is stacked high on the docks before winter freezes the lake lanes, they will have earned their three months of leisure until next season.

This GI Laundry Punches Holes In Soldiers' Socks

CAMP SHELBY, Miss.—The post laundry will punch holes in socks as a result of a shortage of netting. The laundry was forced to abandon placing each GI's soiled clothes in an individual net bag and returned to the former practice of looping each soldier's belongings together on a string.

"In undershirts," the laundry officer said, "you can put the string through an armhole, for shorts you can pass it through a leg, but on socks you got a dead end. There's no way out except through a hole."

Remember the Apple Days?

Remember those grim days during the Great Depression when men who couldn't find work stood on street corners selling apples?

Many of those apple peddlers had been prosperous... had had good jobs. They'd been making extra money... just as you are today. But the trouble was, they thought things would always be like that.

Are you making that mistake today? Or are you saving your extra money so that no matter what happens after the war you will have some money you can get your hands on?

The best way to make sure that you will never be a street-corner peddler is to put your extra money into War Bonds.

War Bonds are the best investment in the world. Every $3 you put into them today will pay you back $4 ten years from now. And... best of all... you can never be broke while you've got a sheaf of War Bonds in your pocket!

So buy War Bonds... and more War Bonds. And hang on to them!

Banish Too-Prominent Tummy By Developing Abdomen Muscles

MISS LAPLANCHE Straight back banishes tummy

By straightening out the sway in a back—one posture exercise will do the trick—any girl can slope out the too sharp curve in her hip line, and what's more, banish a tummy from the spotlight.

For the posture training that will set you straight, subtly-curved Louise LaPlanche, "Rainbow Island" star, says an unflattering formula—one she worked out for herself—is to tighten abdominal muscles as you walk along, and to make a game of this business of keeping them contracted.

"Start by giving muscles a squeeze play for a half block at a time," says Louise. "Then relax and try to keep your grip for longer distances. This way, muscles get the strengthening exercise they need to support your back, and will eventually keep it as straight as a lance without any help from you."

Woman Makes Story Books In Braille For Sightless Children

(By United Press)
CHARLOTTE, N. C. Children's books that have long been favorites of the average youngster are now being read by North Carolina blind children who receive them through a mailing library of 20 children's books which have been transcribed into Braille by a Charlotte housewife.

Mrs. Bass Brown, Jr., began the children's collection over a year ago when she received a certificate from the Library of Congress for transcribing into Braille.

She spent an average of 35 hours of tedious work in transcribing each story. In the collection are many books that have never before been transcribed into Braille.

Selection of stories is left to Mrs. Brown's two little girls who have chosen such titles as "Bambi," "Raggedy Ann," and "Cowboy Ken." Mrs. Brown says that she is interested primarily in helping the blind to be as much like their seeing friends as possible.

In addition to transcribing the books, Mrs. Brown illustrates them with cut out figures. She has also bound and hand embossed each of the volumes. She handles circulation, mailing and correspondence for the library and sends with each Braille book a copy of the original so that parents may see what their children are reading.

Mrs. Brown says that she started the children's library because while some states have circulating libraries for the blind, none has books for youngsters.

The Library of Congress circulates books and magazines for adults she said. The few children's classics publisher cost from several dollars up to $25. Gulliver's Travels costs $6 and the Adventures of Tom Sawyer $10.

Walt Disney and other authors have been most co-operative in granting copyrights, Mrs. Brown says.

The next book to be added to the collection, "Timothy's House" by Disney, will carry the idea of fingertip visualization one step further, according to the amateur librarian. She explained that the book will be illustrated with miniature of the objects "Timothy" used to build his house, including a thimble, pipe, feather, cork and bottlecap.

DEATH DRAMA IN A PARIS STREET

BEFORE ALLIED FORCES entered Paris, the city was the scene of furious battles to the death between Nazi occupation troops and patriots. A French underground photographer snapped this tense series just after a German soldier had been picked off. At upper left he looks for the enemy. Suddenly she appears (upper right), a girl member of the FFI, and rapidly searches him for weapons. Then, as the Nazi writhes in agony, another FFI fighter hastens forward as the woman patriot hands him the German's rifle. News of the Day Newsreel. (International)

FORMER LEIPZIG MAYOR SENTENCED IN HITLER PLOTTING

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Sept. 11.—Dr. Karl Friedrich Goerdeler, former Leipzig mayor described as a ringleader in the abortive July 20 plot to kill Adolf Hitler, has been sentenced to death along with six other "plotters," Berlin radio disclosed today.

A number of alleged conspirators including high army officers, already have been killed. The 60-year-old Goerdeler had been designated by the plotters to become chancellor of a new German government which would have sought peace, the broadcast said.

The six convicted with Goerdeler were named as Ulrich Von Hassel, former Nazi ambassador to Rome; Count Wolf Henrich Von Helldorf, former police chief in Berlin; Trott Zu Solz, a former secretary in the ministry of foreign affairs; Paul Lejeune-June, a former deputy Wilhelm Leuschner, former Hessian minister of the interior; Josef Winter, an attorney.

Goerdeler, former German minister of economics, "worked out the plans of treason and it was he who formed the bridge between the military traitors and political conspirators," the German news agency Transocean said.

Goerdeler was captured after a price of a million marks (about $400,000) had been placed on his head.

The conspirators intended immediately after the assassination to set up a dictatorship "which would have immediately capitulated to the enemies of Germany," the agency said.

G. I. CLOTHING SET BY CLIMATIC MAPS

Climatology Study Assures Servicemen of Proper Garb

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON—This is the story of how geography and weather conditions were rolled into a thing called climatology and got into the war to affect the Quartermaster corps' clothing designers.

It was told recently after the War department had announced that America's army of 7,700,000 men is the best-dressed in the world.

To begin with, climatology outlines by maps the average type of climate to be found in a locality at a certain time. It takes the view that climate is a dynamic and moving force. By the concept of "moving climates" one can follow on maps how the January climate of Florida moves upward to become the July of middle Canada and then recedes in the fall.

Supply Limited
In July, 1942, a climatology unit was added to the research and development branch of the Quartermaster corps. It was set up because the fighting front couldn't choose clothing from a large wardrobe. What he wore had to travel across a supply line thousands of miles long, and there could be no exchanges.

Moreover, when a Joe is in the battle zone and "dressing for an occasion," he probably has a date with an automatic rifle and a rendezvous with a Japanese or a German. Joe wants and needs protection from severe weather and external discomfort, and it is the job of the Quartermaster Corps to see that his clothing will do that as much as possible.

By referring to climatology maps designers in the research and development branch of the corps can ascertain what sort of weather a soldier is likely to encounter at a certain time in a certain area. Clothing can be planned accordingly.

Series Totals 80
Today a series of 80 climatic maps has been prepared, showing average conditions of rainfall, temperature and humidity for every month on the six continents. Climatic maps of the oceans have been made on a seasonal rather than a monthly basis. Additional and more detailed maps of the United States round out the series.

Each climatic zone represented on a map shows a condition in which one general type of clothing may be worn.

The same scale of coloring used in all maps facilitates the comparison of one region with another. Altogether 18 different climatic zones are shown.

The information given by these maps has proved valuable not only to the Quartermaster Corps, but also to military strategists in planning campaigns, for weather is a major consideration in battle.

Extensive Preparation
Preparation of a climatology map is extensive and so highly specialized that most workers have college degrees in geographical or weather work. The starting point is a base map which defines the area to be included. By long and complicated development 12 maps are prepared to show precipitation for each month and 12 others to show the average monthly temperatures of the area. With a topographical map to aid in defining altitudes, the final results are drawn to be published by the Army map service.

No one person can take credit for the development of this type of map. In the War Department unit about 10 persons are needed for each one, but thousands of persons throughout the world must contribute analyses of weather and topography.

In addition to the series of 80 climatic maps, the unit has prepared special ones for other purposes. For example, some show man's daily water requirements in different sections of the world; others how long a man on a life raft can survive without provisions; and still others to facilitate fuel estimates in various regions.

Persian Lamb Refugees In Ohio Thrive On Climate

Karakul sheep, formerly imported from Europe or Asia, are now being raised on an Ohio ranch.

By NEA Service
DAYTON, O.—Persian lamb coats for milady, formerly made from skins imported at high cost from Europe and Asia, now may be considered a completely American product.

Located on a 200-acre farm, five miles north of here, is the largest Karakul sheep ranch in the country, housing 2,000 of these hardy animals. The breed originated in Bokhara, in Asiatic Russia.

L. R. Garrison and W. H. Hartzell, Dayton business men, operate the ranch and are carrying on the work of scientific breeding and raising of the animals, brought to its present state of perfection by H. J. Davey, Fort Collins, Col., from whom they bought the entire flock two years ago.

Pelts of Persian lambs are considered prime at from two to four days after birth, and each pelt, depending on curl, pattern and texture, is valued at from $10 to $25. It requires about 10 pelts to make a full-length coat.

The Daytonians are completely sold on this grade of sheep. Accustomed to the extreme heat and bitter cold of the country of their origin, Karakul sheep, of the fat tail variety, can live for 30 days without food if necessary. They can subsist on the stored-up fat in their tails.

Karakul sheep may be bred at seven months and their period of productivity runs from 12 to 15 years. They may be bred twice yearly and about 15 pounds of long strand and fine texture wool is obtained from each of two shearings a year from each animal. Wool from Karakul sheep is used in making expensive Persian rugs, blankets and robes.

American farmers are becoming more and more interested in these sheep. Mr. Garrison points out they find a harder type of animal resulting when they are bred with other sheep types. Of the more than 1,000 lambs born on the ranch this year, the majority are being shipped to farmers and stock raisers in many parts of the country.

Karakul sheep were first brought to this country in 1908 from Russia, but it is entirely possible that the Dayton ranchers may be called upon to restock European and Asiatic herds, most of the pure bred and registered animals having been slaughtered for meat by the invading Nazi hordes in Russia.

Flag Presentation Rites Held at Leetonia Church

LEETONIA, Sept. 11.—Four sets of United States and Christian flags were presented at St. Paul's Lutheran church Sunday morning for the following members: Ross Mellinger, Jr., Shirl Fickes, George Sines and Revie Freeman. Sixty-seven homes have now received these flags, representing 75 members of the congregation.

Members of the family of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Lodge called surprise fashion at their home Sunday afternoon to remind them of their birthday anniversaries. A coverdish dinner was served at 6 p. m.

Those in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lodge and family of Struthers; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hedl and daughter of Lisbon, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cabot Lodge of Minerva and Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers Lodge and family of Leetonia. One son, First Class Petty Officer Leon Lodge, is on active duty in Africa. The honorees received remembrances.

Miss Jean Smith is visiting her brother, Capt. and Mrs. Dale T. Smith and son, Randy, at Miami, Fla.

Blaine Heinze, MM 1/c, U. S. N., San Francisco, Calif., is spending a 30-day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heinze.

Ensign Paul W. Atkinson, U. S. N. R., Chicago, spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Atkinson.

'Winterize Your Home For 'Blown' Rock Wool

"The government is so conscious of the need to conserve fuel," says R. B. Finley, whose firm is local headquarters for Johns-Manville "blown" rock wool insulation, "that the FHA is sponsoring an extensive campaign to prepare homes now for the winter."

Banks are being permitted to extend FHA-insured loans on a 36-month basis to finance fuel saving improvements.

Last fall many owners who delayed winterizing their homes were disappointed to learn the work could not be scheduled until after the heating season had begun, because of shortages caused by the sudden surge of pent-up demand. This will happen again unless you act in a hurry, Finley warns.

An excellent investment in home comfort and economy in normal times, the need for installing rock wool insulation is now doubly urgent. Many Columbiana county residents whose homes were insulated last fall report fuel savings ranging as high as 30 per cent.

'Still Wear' Is Harmful To Valuable Automobiles

"Still wear," the deterioration resulting from limited driving can be just as harmful to the life and performance of automobiles as active daily wear, warns H. I. Hine, local Ford dealer.

Automobiles must be driven a certain number of miles each month to keep their working parts in first-class mechanical condition, Hine points out.

Some of the more dangerous results of 'still wear' are run-down batteries, rust on cylinder walls caused by condensation of water, and contaminated crankcase oil. The car's joints become stiff because of insufficient use, while tires lose pressure and depreciate.

The remedy for "still wear" lies in periodic service check-ups and regular monthly inspection of carburetor adjustments, tire wear and wheel alignment.

Cope Bros. & Fultz Can Help In Fall Plantings

Although evergreens as well as most any small tree or shrub can be moved at any time of the year, it does require special knowledge and much care to have success. Many are under the wrong impression though regarding fall transplanting.

Evergreens transplant very satisfactory during the latter part of summer and throughout the fall, any tree or bush that drop their leaves transplant well as soon as the leaves begin to fall which in many cases is long before frost.

If you are going to do any landscaping before winter now is the time to be making definite plans. Now, too you can choose your varieties to advantage by seeing the trees and bushes in full leaf by going out to Cope Bros. and Fultz Nursery on Depot road.

Boosters Club Plans Football Team "Parent's Night"; District Grid Card To Open With Full Slate This Week

"Old Folks" Are Invited For Chat With Coaches, Team At Thursday Evening Meet

Inaugurating a new procedure in Salem High school athletics, the Salem Boosters club, in cooperation with Coach Ben Barrett, will hold a football team "Parent's Night" at 8 p. m. Thursday in the Memorial building, it was announced today.

Following an established practice in numerous other district High schools, the Boosters and Coach Barrett are bringing the parents, team members and coaching staff together for a "get acquainted" session. Discussions of practices, games, training rules and equipment are planned.

Invitations were mailed yesterday to parents of every member of the squad and Barrett and his staff said today they were hoping for a full turnout.

The sessions will help to create an understanding between the coaches and the parents, a Booster spokesman said, and will not only help the boys in their interest but will give the adults a better idea of the training their sons are receiving and the equipment they are protected by while practicing and playing.

Scheduled for the night before the opening game, the program will be short and fast moving. Refreshments will be served after the meeting, Boosters said.

Talks by Barrett, Joe Kelley, Frank Tarr, new Junior Varsity coach, and Robert Miller, new grid assistant and basketball coach, will be included in the program.

Plans also embody the display of a full set of football togs, exactly like those furnished the Salem squad for their workouts.

The meeting was decided upon by the Boosters after several other district schools have tried the idea and report very favorable.

Similar meetings are held in Marion county and to a great deal to stimulate student and parent interest in football, according to reports. East Liverpool initiated the program last year and is continuing it in 1944. Several other Stark county schools have these meetings, Barrett says, and some schools in the Mahoning valley have them yearly.

OHIO GRID HONOR UPHELD IN WEEK'S OPENING CONTESTS

Miami and Dennison Top Notchers With Wins In First Trys

BY HAROLD HARRISON
COLUMBUS, Sept. 11.—Miami, Baldwin-Wallace and Dennison are heading the parade today after the first week-end of the 1944 Ohio college football season.

They swept to easy victories Saturday, and Baldwin-Wallace and Dennison will have a chance next week-end to add to their reputations.

There are only three games on the week-end program but in one, Baldwin-Wallace will meet Case at Berea and in another Dennison will invade Oberlin in the first game for the year—among the toughest in Ohio last fall. In only other game Bowling Green goes to Ohio Wesleyan. The Baldwin-Wallace-Case game will be played Friday night and the other two Saturday.

Miami, which started the season with only one regular left over from last year, uncovered a red hot back in Johnny Quinn of Lima. Quinn scored once in every period as the Redskins romped over Bowling Green, 28 to 5. Bowling Green previously had capped a one-point decision from Central Michigan State teachers.

Baldwin-Wallace and Dennison upheld the football honor of Ohio in engagements with out-of-state foes. Baldwin-Wallace came from behind to whip the University of Rochester (N. Y.), 33 to 19.

Case and Ohio Wesleyan battled to a 7 to 7 tie in a night game at Cleveland. The result was somewhat of a surprise because Wesleyan has been singing the blues ever since practice started, claiming its lads were sadly lacking in experience.

EYE-POPPERS

BY ERNIE DUSEK
Heavyweight Wrestler

It was during the season of 1942 that Sammy Baugh engineered the greatest play I ever saw in any sport.

The Giant line had the Redskins backed against the goal line.

On second down, Baugh took several quick steps behind the goal, faked a quick kick that sent the New York secondary scurrying up the field, faked a pass

Sammy Baugh to the left and then passed perfectly to the Washington left end who raced with the retreating safety man before cutting toward the center of the field to make the catch.

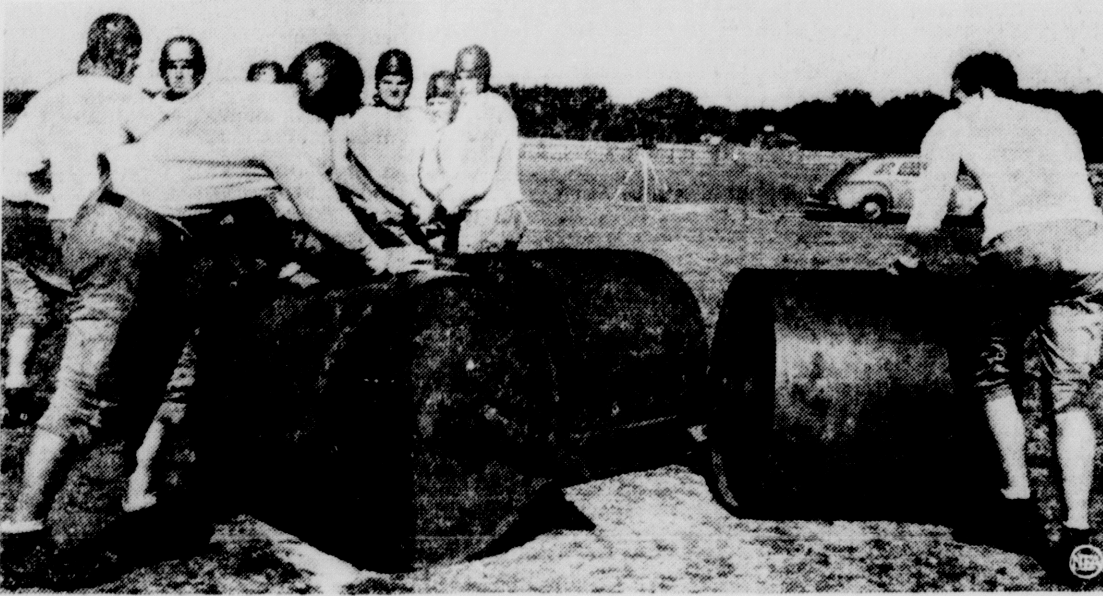

My eyes peeped out as the play took the ball from the Redskins' five to midfield. Washington scored soon after.

That one play changed the entire complexion of the game, the Redskins winning, 14-7.

All women intending to bowl in the Adrian Women's league this season are urged to attend an organization meeting at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Masonic temple.

The league is expected to begin operations in one or two weeks and will be made up of practically the same squads which participated last year.

YANKS AND TIGERS NOW ON TOP IN HOT JUNIOR LOOP RACE

Two Pass Browns Sunday. Still Only One Game Between Three

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Winning the close ones has enabled the New York Yankees to take possession of the top rung in the hot American League scramble. Including yesterday's nightcap 4-3 victory over the Boston Red Sox, the McCarthy men boast a record of 22 one-run decisions against 18 such defeats. Of their 13 extra-inning tilts, the Yankees have taken seven.

The Yanks had temporarily lost their first-place hold to the Detroit Tigers when they dropped the opener 3-2. By winning the second game, the Yankees regained the lead as both the Tigers and the St. Louis Browns divided their twin-bills, leaving the Bengals still a half game behind and the Browns in third place, one game away. The Red Sox were three lengths off the pace.

Good On Close Ones
The Tigers have done even better than the Yankees, capturing 27 one-run games and losing only 11, and have annexed eight of their 11 extra-inning contests.

But for their poor showing in overtime games, the Browns would still be leading the league. Yesterday's 3-2 11-inning defeat by the White Sox in the night cap after having won the opener, 6-2, kept the Browns from deadlocking the lead. It marked their 12th extra-inning loss this year compared to only six won. They've dropped 23 one-run affairs, winning only 17.

Hal Newhouser spun a four-hitter against the Cleveland Indians for his 24th triumph, as Detroit won 3-0. The Tribe shelved Dizzy Trout from the mound to win the aftermath, 7-4.

Nelson Potter held the White Sox to six hits in the opener, winning 6-2. In the nightcap, a single by Jimmy Webb and Relief Pitcher Orval Grove's triple won for Chicago 3-2.

Senators Take Two
In the other American League twin-bill the Washington Senators twice defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 2-1 and 8-2.

Mort Cooper hurled the St. Louis Cardinals to a 4-2 win after the Chicago Cubs shut out the Red Bids, 9-0.

Cincinnati ended its home season dividing a pair of games with Pittsburgh. The Pirates thwarted Bucky Walters' bid for his 21st victory by winning, 7-5. The Reds took the second 2-0 behind Arnold Cart-

ter. Brooklyn and Philadelphia split the Dodgers winning the opener, 8-4, and the Phillies taking the second, 3-2. The New York Giants defeated the Boston Braves, 10-4, in the day's only single contest.

Quakers To Scrimmage Against Alliance

Salem's Quakers will get their second taste of real competition when they scrimmage the Alliance Aviators here Tuesday afternoon.

A good indication of the outcome of Friday's game may come from this workout against Coach Morris Covert's charges.

The Alliance team has opposed Sebring twice this season in practice sessions.

ADRIAN WOMEN'S LEAGUE TO MEET

All women intending to bowl in the Adrian Women's league this season are urged to attend an organization meeting at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Masonic temple.

The league is expected to begin operations in one or two weeks and will be made up of practically the same squads which participated last year.

Demings Trying For Win Over China — Do or Die

With one all-important victory already tucked under their belts, the Salem China, Class A softball's most frequent winner this year, will try to add the city softball title to their belt this evening at 8 under the lights at Reilly stadium when they face Kenny Brudery and his Deming team.

Looking for another easy win like their 7-0 romp last week, the Potters may run into more trouble than they encountered in the opener.

Every team has a bad night, and if Demings ever had one, it was the contest Thursday. In that fatal opener they committed five errors, and made several other miscues that didn't go down in the book. With all that out of their system, they may be a revamped aggregation tonight.

With one sure potency to count on today—Brudery's reliable hurling—the Pump team will have two big problems to solve.

No. 1—Will be the effectiveness of Pitcher Dale Ritchie against their batting power. Ritchie sat the Pumpers down in order through most of the contest Thursday and had no trouble getting out of trouble at any time during the nine-inning fray. He allowed just three hits.

No. 2—Will be to tighten their defense behind Brudery's expert hurling. In the series opener the five errors were not only troublesome, but allowed the China to score four of their runs without a safety to help things along.

Should the China outfit post another win tonight, the city series will be over and the Potters crowned city champs. Having won three straight rounds, this year and 25 of their 29 games, they are definitely favorites over the Deming crew, which won 13 games this year while losing 15.

However, anything can happen in a playoff.

The first game, at 7 p. m., will see the Park A. C. try for win No. 2 over the threatening Columbiana aggregation. Parks won the Class B opener 16-3 on Thursday.

To Windward

They're off in 25-mile southeast wind in last of five-race international Star Class yacht championship on Lake Michigan off Chicago. Gerald Driscoll, 19-year-old Naval Academy appointee of San Diego, won with 86 points.

SALEM REBOUNDS TO BEAT TAYLORCRAFT 5-4, IN HOME FRAY

Athletics Are Victorious In Another Contest With Alliance Foe

Showing that old comeback spirit, the Salem Athletics rebounded from a 4-2 disadvantage to defeat the Alliance Taylorcrafts, 5-4, at Centennial park yesterday and keep their perfect record against Alliance teams this year.

Meeting the Aviators for the second time this season, Salem showed the ability to pick up scores when needed and scored a pair of runs in the fifth inning and another in the seventh to put the game on ice.

Walt Smith, working with his usual dependability on the mound, hurled seven hit ball to equal that of Alliance's Paul Baughman. Baughman limited the locals to seven safeties also, but couldn't keep things spaced well enough to prevent Salem scores.

Al Catlos laid out one of the longest doubles seen at the park this season. Walt Smith connected for a double also. No Salem batter got more than one hit, but all but two of them were good for a safety in the contest.

Fred Roose looked good at the plate for the visitors, getting three hits in four tips to the pan. The Alliance hurler, Baughman, got two hits in four tries.

Alliance opened with a single run in the first inning and held the locals scoreless. In the second, Alliance collected three more runs and Salem got a pair, making it 4-2. Then things went scoreless all the way for the visitors as Salem picked up two in the fifth and the last one in the seventh.

Elevens Ready To Go This Week As Scholastic Frays Take Over Sport Interest

District football cards, especially those of schools booked against Salem this season, reveal the opening of the 1944 football season with a bang, as most of Ohio's high school gridiron machines go into action over this weekend.

All the schools booked against the Quakers get into their first action Friday and Saturday as the locals take on the Sebring High Trojans for their initial 1944 encounter at Reilly field Friday night.

A game in East Liverpool pits the Potters against Steubenville Central. The Irish, though not usually the strongest team in their own city, annually put up a terrific battle against the Potters and should make hard picking for an opener.

With seven lettermen on the inside track for starting berths and a backfield—all Juniors and all veterans—averaging 165 pounds, East Liverpool seems well set. Steubenville is an untried quantity now, but boasts several returning vets.

Girard Opens Friday
Over at Girard—the new team on the Salem schedule this year—prospects for the first game Friday against Youngstown South are promising. Six veterans from last year's team and a new "man of experience" brighten the Indian picture. Coach O. C. Baumgartner isn't making any predictions, but he says things will be better than last season.

Two county and Tri-County aggregations clash at the fairgrounds.

SPORT CHATTER

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Ted Owens, Oklahoma U. athletic trainer, says every high school football coach should have a first aid kit, ankle wraps for every player and a whirlpool bath. He also advises getting a sports-minded doctor to sit on the bench at games.

Just in case some coaches didn't know that much, this mornor dadd its opinion that no football game, scrimmage or contact drill should be held when there isn't a doctor handy. There's always a chance that a boy will be hurt playing football, so why risk a serious injury that might be avoided.

Monday Matinee
A couple of neutral observers report that Slingshot Sammy Baugh hasn't learned to fake well enough to operate effectively in the Redskins' T formation.

If Ex-Marine George Savitsky makes the U. of Penn varsity this fall, he'll probably be listed as the biggest footballer in Penn history. He's a 252-pound tackle and one of the fastest men on the squad.

Up Alliances with the graduation-riddled Aviators, with but three veterans back, take on Worcester in their opener Friday. Coached by Marcus Covert this year, the Aviators are still awaiting a good test. The new mentor refrains from any predictions, but is well aware of the tough schedule he must face.

Ravenna Plays Saturday
On Saturday, Harry Gilcrest and his Ravenna Ravens, who entertain the Quakers next week, will open against Rocky River in the Arsenal city. With a heavy aggregation melding into shape, Gilcrest will probably employ his T formation again. Rocky River tripped the Ravens in the opener there last year so Gilcrest is out to revenge the defeat.

Nothing Over 50 Cents

On South Pacific Island

WASHINGTON — Perhaps the cost of living has climbed on the home front, but ceiling prices on the island of Emirau in the Southwest Pacific are lower than a hand-woven sleeping mat (50 cents and it's yours).

Marines on the island can buy a bunch of bananas for a dime, a chicken for a quarter and apples and eggs for one cent each, according to Capt. Sanford B. Hunt, Jr.,
of Elizabeth, N. J., who returned here from a Marine outfit which participated in the unopposed occupation of Emirau in the St. Matthias group.

Some of the other values on his list: Pineapples, 10 cents; Kau kau
(sweet potatoes), 10 cents a dozen;
moolies (limes), 20 for five cents;
green coconuts, one cent; hand-
woven belt, 20 cents; pumpkins, 5 cents and 10 cents. Price lists were posted at each native village to establish deals and "prevent unethical dealings and cheating by both parties concerned," Hunt said.

Shuffleboard was played as early as the 15th century.

Back in Hollywood

RETURNING to Hollywood following an eight-week vacation in New York where she attended the world premiere of her new picture, "The Doughgirls," Jane Wyman is greeted by her daughter

Boosters Club Plans Football Team "Parent's Night"; District Grid Card To Open With Full Slate This Week

"Old Folks" Are Invited For Chat With Coaches, Team At Thursday Evening Meet

Inaugurating a new procedure in Salem High school athletics, the Salem Boosters club, in cooperation with Coach Ben Barrett, will hold a football team "Parent's Night" at 8 p. m. Thursday in the Memorial building, it was announced today.

Following an established practice in numerous other district High schools, the Boosters and Coach Barrett are bringing the parents, team members and coaching staff together for a "get acquainted" session. Discussions of practices, games, training rules and equipment are planned. Invitations were mailed yesterday to parents of every member of the squad and Barrett and his staff said today they were hoping for a full turnout.

The sessions will help to create an understanding between the coaches and the parents, a Booster spokesman said, "and will not only help the boys in their interest but will give the adults a better idea of the training their sons are receiving and the equipment they are protected by while practicing and playing."

Scheduled for the night before the opening game, the program will be short and fast moving. Refreshments will be served after the meeting, Boosters said.

Talks by Barrett, Joe Kelley, Frank Tarr, new Junior Varsity coach, and Robert Miller, new grid assistant and basketball coach, will be included in the program.

Plans also embody the display of a full set of football togs, exactly like those furnished the Salem squad for their workouts.

The meeting was decided upon by the Boosters after several other district schools have tried the idea and report very favorable.

Similar meetings are held in Massillon yearly and do a great deal to stimulate student and parent interest in football, according to reports. East Liverpool initiated the program last year and is continuing it in 1944. Several other Stark county schools have these meetings, Barrett says, and some schools in the Mahoning valley have them yearly.

Mexico's Vega Brothers Round Out Latin-American Quartet In National Tennis Tournament

By LUIS SUAREZ
Mexico City Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS—The handsome Vega brothers—Armando and Rolando—are seeking the national doubles championship. Coming from a double championship, they join Francisco Segura of Ecuador and Eduardo Buse of Peru as a colorful and capable Latin-American delegation.

Carlos Escudon, president of the Mexican association, is at the famous West Side Tennis club to see the Vegas make their bid.

Luis Suarez, competent judges, say that with a favorable draw the Vegas could reach the final in doubles, predict they'll reach the semi-finals. They are expected to attain the quarter-finals in singles.

The Vegas brought with them the titles of Pan-American and Mexican doubles champions.

Hens of Pedro Vega, wealthy hat manufacturer, they started eight years ago at the French Club of Mexico City. They were developed by the late Spanish professional Rafael Arnedo.

The Vegas—Armando at 21 is a year younger than Rolando—are identical in size—an even six feet and around 152 pounds. Armando is studying to be a civil engineer. Rolando is an auditor. Armando is serious, the mustached Rolando a personality kid and ladies' man.

Made Every Step
Armando won the Mexican boys' and junior titles and in 1942 became national senior champion.

More concentration and fighting spirit made Armando the superior singles player, but Rolando soon caught up with him and for the past two years they have shared honors evenly in Mexican tournaments.

Armando achieved his first big triumph in 1942 when he repelled Jose Aguerro, Cuban champion, in an international tournament between Mexico and Cuba in Mexico City. Armando and Rolando repulsed Aguerro and Nedarse in doubles.

In 1942 the Vegas participated in all American eastern tournaments except the nationals. At Southampton they turned back such strong combinations as Panchito Segura and Alejo Russell and Charley Mattman and George Rich-

OHIO GRID HONOR UPHELD IN WEEK'S OPENING CONTESTS

Miami and Dennison Top Notchers With Wins In First Trys

BY HAROLD HARRISON

COLUMBUS, Sept. 11—Miami, Baldwin-Wallace and Denison are heading the parade today after the first week-end of the 1944 Ohio college football season.

They swept to easy victories Saturday, and Baldwin-Wallace and Denison will have a chance next week-end to add to their reputations.

There are only three games on the week-end program but in one, Baldwin-Wallace will meet Case at Berea and in another Denison will invade Oberlin in the first game for the yeomen—among the toughest in Ohio last fall. In only other game Bowling Green goes to Ohio Wesleyan. The Baldwin-Wallace-Case game will be played Friday night and the other two Saturday.

Miami, which started the season with only one regular left over from last year, uncovered a red hot back in Johnny Quinn of Lima. Quinn scored once in every period as the Redskins romped over Bowling Green, 28 to 7. Bowling Green previously had topped a one-point decision from Central Michigan State teachers.

Baldwin-Wallace and Denison upheld the football honor of Ohio in engagements with out-of-state foes. Baldwin-Wallace came from behind to whip the University of Rochester (N. Y.), 33 to 19.

Case and Ohio Wesleyan battled to a 7 to 7 tie in a night game at Cleveland. The result was somewhat of a surprise because Wesleyan has been singing the blues ever since practice started, claiming its lads were sadly lacking in experience.

Softball Playoffs Tonight!

YANKS AND TIGERS NOW ON TOP IN HOT JUNIOR LOOP RACE

Two Pass Browns Sunday. Still Only One Game Between Three

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer

Winning the close ones has enabled the New York Yankees to take possession of the top rung in the hot American League scramble.

Including yesterday's nightcap 4-3 victory over the Boston Red Sox, the McCarthy men boast a record of 22 one-run decisions against 18 such defeats. Of their 13 extra-inning tilts, the Yankees have taken seven.

The Yanks had temporarily lost their first-place hold to the Detroit Tigers when they dropped the opener 3-2. By winning the second game the Yankees regained the lead as both the Tigers and the St. Louis Browns divided their twin-bills, leaving the Bengals still a half game behind and the Browns in third place, one game away. The Red Sox were three lengths off the pace.

Good On Close Ones
The Tigers have done even better than the Yankees, capturing 21 one-run games and losing only 11, and have annexed eight of their 11 extra-inning contests.

But for their poor showing in overtime games, the Browns would still be leading the league. Yesterday's 3-2 11-inning defeat by the White Sox in the night cap after having won the opener, 6-2, kept the Browns from deadlocking the lead. It marked their 12th extra-inning loss this year compared to only six won. They've dropped 23 "one-run affairs, winning only 17.

Hal Newhouse spun a four-hitter against the Cleveland Indians for his 24th triumph as Detroit won 5-0. The Tribe shelled Dizzy Trout from the mound to win the afternoon, 7-4.

Senators Take Two
In the other American league twin-bill the Washington Senators twice defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 2-1 and 8-2.

Mort Cooper hurled the St. Louis Cardinals to a 4-2 win after the Chicago Cubs shut out the Red Bids, 9-0.

Cincinnati ended its home season dividing a pair of games with Pittsburgh. The Pirates thwarted Buckey Walters' bid for his 21st victory by winning 7-5. The Reds took the second, 2-0 behind Arnold Carter. Brooklyn and Philadelphia split the Dodgers winning the opener, 8-4, and the Phils taking the second, 3-2. The New York Giants defeated the Boston Braves 10-4 in the day's only single contest.

Quakers To Scrimmage Against Alliance
Salem's Quakers will get their second taste of real competition when they scrimmage the Alliance Aviators here Tuesday afternoon.

A good indication of the outcome of Friday's game may come from this workout against Coach Marcus Covert's charges. The Alliance team has opposed Sebring twice this season in practice sessions.

ADRIAN WOMEN'S LEAGUE TO MEET
All women intending to bowl in the Adrian Women's league this season are urged to attend an organization meeting at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Masonic temple.

The league is expected to begin operations in one or two weeks and will be made up of practically the same squads which participated last year.

Demings Trying For Win Over China — Do or Die

With one all-important victory already tucked under their belts, the Salem China, Class A softball's most frequent winner this year, will try to add the city softball title to their belt this evening at 8 under the lights at Reilly stadium when they face Kenny Brudery and his Deming team.

Looking for another easy win like their 7-0 romp last week, the Potters may run into more trouble than they encountered in the opener.

Every team has a bad night, and if Demings ever had one, it was the contest Thursday. In that fatal opener they committed five errors, and made several other miscues that didn't go down in the book. With all that out of their system, they may be a revamped aggregation tonight.

With one sure potency to count on today—Brudery's reliable hurling—the Pump team will have two big problems to solve.

No. 1—Will be the effectiveness of Pitcher Dale Ritchie against their batting power. Ritchie sat the Pumpers down in order through most of the contest Thursday and had no trouble getting out of trouble at any time during the nine-inning fray. He allowed just three hits.

No. 2—Will be to tighten their defense behind Brudery's expert hurling. In the series opener the five errors were not only troublesome, but allowed the China to score four of their runs without a safety to help things along.

Should the China outfit post another win tonight, the city series will be over and the Potters crowned city champs. Having won three straight rounds this year and 25 of their 29 games, they are definitely favorites over the Deming crew, which won 13 games this year while losing 15.

However, anything can happen in a playoff.

The first game, at 7 p. m., will see the Park A. C. try for win No. 2 over the threatening Columbiana aggregation. Parks won the Class B opener 16-3 on Thursday.

SALEM REBOUNDS TO BEAT TAYLORCRAFT 5-4, IN HOME FRAY

Athletics Are Victorious In Another Contest With Alliance Foe

Showing that old comeback spirit, the Salem Athletics rebounded from a 4-2 disadvantage to defeat the Alliance Taylorcrafts, 5-4, at Centennial park yesterday and keep their perfect record against Alliance teams this year.

Meeting the Aviators for the second time this season, Salem showed the ability to pick up scores when needed and scored a pair of runs in the fifth inning and another in the seventh to put the game on ice.

Walt Smith, working with his usual dependability on the mound, hurled seven hit ball to equal that of Alliance's Paul Baughman. Baughman limited the locals to seven safeties also, but couldn't keep things spaced well enough to prevent Salem scores.

At Caltos laid out one of the longest doubles seen at the park this season. Walt Smith connected for a double also. No Salem batter got more than one hit, but all but two of them were good for a safety in the contest.

Fred Russo looked good at the plate for the visitors, getting three hits in four trips to the pan. The Alliance hurler, Baughman, got two hits in four tries.

Alliance opened with a single run in the first inning and held the locals scoreless. In the second, Alliance collected three more runs and Salem got a pair, making it 4-2. Then things went scoreless all the way for the visitors as Salem picked up two in the fifth and the last one in the seventh.

Elevens Ready To Go This Week As Scholastic Frays Take Over Sport Interest

District football cards, especially those of schools booked against Salem this season, reveal the opening of the 1944 football season with bang, as most of Ohio's High school gridiron machines go into action over this weekend.

All the schools booked against the Quakers get into their first action Friday and Saturday as the locals take on the Sebring High Trojans for their initial 1944 encounter at Reilly field Friday night.

A game in East Liverpool pits the Potters against Steubenville Central. The Irish, though not usually the strongest team in their own city, annually put up a terrific battle against the Potters and should make hard picking for an opener.

With seven lettermen on the inside track for starting berths and a backfield—all Juniors and all veterans—averaging 165 pounds, East Liverpool seems well set. Steubenville is an untried quantity now, but boasts several returning vets.

Grand Opens Friday
Over at Girard—the new team on the Salem schedule this year—prospects for the first game Friday against Youngstown South are promising. Six veterans from last year's team and a new "man of experience" brighten the Indian picture. Coach O. C. Baumgartner isn't making any predictions, but he says things will be better than last season.

Two county and Tri-County aggregations clash at the fairgrounds in Lisbon Saturday, when the Blue Devils entertain the Columbiana Clippers for an afternoon try. Coach Robert Rutter, new Lisbon mentor, isn't bragging, but he hopes to open with a win over his opponent at Columbiana. John Cabas, also a new coach there.

Bengals Begin Under Ingalls
Wellsville opens with a home game against Scienceville as Wally Ingalls starts his first season at the Bengal gridiron helm. Far from blessed with experienced men, Ingalls is pinning his hopes on four lettermen who will be able to go this week. Scienceville looms as a strong Mahoning valley aggregation and will be a tough one for the Tigers to crack.

A bitter inter-county contest is brewing for the opener at East Palestine. Leetonia, long rivals of the Bulldogs, will begin operations under the lights there Friday. Coach J. L. McBride has 16 lettermen back this year and is out for a perfect season. East Palestine, under new tutelage, will function with six lettermen, four of them in the backfield. John Reid is the new Bulldog coach.

Struthers, another Salem opponent, will open at home Friday against Lowellville. Coach Roy Hodge, taking over for his second season, says things are looking up for the Big Red and he expects a "better than average" season.

Ravenna Plays Saturday
On Saturday, Harry Gilcrest and his Ravenna Ravens, who entertain the Quakers next week, will open against Rocky River in the Arsenal city. With a heavy aggregation melding into shape, Gilcrest will probably employ his T formation again. Rocky River tripped the Ravens in the opener their last year so Gilcrest is out to revenge the defeat.

Nothing Over 50 Cents
On South Pacific Island
WASHINGTON — Perhaps the cost of living has climbed on the home front, but cheap prices on the island of Enirau in the Southwest Pacific are lower than a hand-woven sleeping mat (50
cents and it's yours).
Marines on the island can buy a bunch of bananas for a dime, a chicken for a quarter and apples
and eggs for one cent each, according to Capt. Sanford B. Hunt, Jr.,
of Elizabeth, N. J., who returned here from a Marine outfit which participated in the unopposed occupation of Enirau in the St. Matthias group.
Some of the other values on his list: Pineapples, 10 cents; Kau kau
(sweet potatoes), 10 cents a dozen;
moolies (limes), 20 for five cents;
green coconuts, one cent; hand-
woven belt, 20 cents; pumpkins, 5 and 10 cents. Price lists were posted at each native village to establish set prices and "prevent unethical dealings and cheating by both parties concerned," Hunt said.
Shuffleboard was played as early as the 15th century.

AMERICANS

The attack of Lt. Gen. Hodges' U. S. First army toward the Saar has carried over 50 miles beyond Sedan and 35 miles east of Montmedy where the Americans sliced through the northernmost hinge of the old Maginot line. The Duchy of Luxembourg, a coal and iron region of 999 square miles, was overrun by the Germans in 1940. On the front before Aachen, American artillery fired its first shots into Germany at 3:30 p. m. Sunday. These shots struck a crossroads near Aachen, the biggest of the northern fort centers of the Siegfried line. Later the Paris radio said Aachen itself was brought under heavy fire from American guns near captured Verviers, 3½ miles southwest of Limbourg. There was no confirmation of this report. Limbourg, 8½ miles from the German frontier, has been reached by American advanced elements.

Alliance Soldier Dead

ALLIANCE, Sept. 11.—Pfc Marion F. McLaughlin died in England Aug. 20 as the result of wounds suffered in action in France Aug. 8, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl McLaughlin, were informed yesterday. His only brother, Pvt. Wayne B., was wounded in France the same day.

• OBITUARY

MRS. ANDREW L. REICHERT

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Kennie Mae Reichert, 60, wife of Andrew L. Reichert, who died suddenly at her home in East Cleveland last night, following several years illness.

Born June 30, 1884, in Butler, O., the daughter of Frank and Hannah Huston Gieselman, she had lived in East Cleveland for the last five years, going there from Lakewood.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two sons, Donald A. Reichert of Salem and Harold, at home, and two grandsons.

A short service will be held at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday at the Monreal funeral home, 15144 Euclid ave., East Cleveland, followed by a service Wednesday afternoon at the George funeral home in Butler. Burial will be in Bunker Hill cemetery there.

MRS. GEORGE I. MITCHELL

Mrs. Katherine S. Mitchell, 74, wife of George I. Mitchell, died at her home on the Depot rd. at 5:15 p. m. Saturday following 14 months illness of a cerebral hemorrhage. The daughter of Ross and Katherine Thompson, she was born in Clyde, Pa., Feb. 22, 1870. She had lived here 12 years, coming to Salem from Pittsburgh. Mrs. Mitchell was a member of the Methodist church. She was married Dec. 21, 1893.

Besides her husband, she leaves a son, Ross, of the Depot rd. Funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Arbaugh-Pearce funeral home, in charge of Rev. C. F. Evans. Burial will be in Hope cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home tonight.

MRS. HERMAN LITTY

Funeral arrangements have not been completed for Mrs. Viola Stanciu Litty, 35, wife of Herman M. Litty of 841 Jennings ave., who died in San Diego, Calif., Saturday morning following an operation.

Mrs. Litty had gone to San Diego to visit her husband, who is stationed there with the Navy.

The body will be brought to Salem for service and burial, to be held probably on Saturday.

ADOLPH BAUM

Adolph Baum of Niles died at 10:45 p. m. Sunday in the Northside hospital, Youngstown. Funeral service will be held Tuesday afternoon at the Averbach funeral home in Youngstown. Burial will be there.

Surviving are four sons, including Emil Baum and Joseph Baum of Salem, and three daughters, including Mrs. Jack Sarbin of Salem.

GEORGE F. MORRIS

LEETONIA, Sept. 11.—George F. Morris, 81, former Leetonia drug store proprietor died at 12:40 p. m. Sunday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. M. B. Lodge, 159 Chestnut st., following several weeks' illness resulting from a stroke.

Born Jan. 6, 1863, in Baltimore, Md., the son of Edwin and Mary Morris, he made his home in Ambridge, Pa., for a number of years while he was superintendent of the American Bridge Co. there, retiring in 1929. For 10 years he was associated in a drug business with Joseph Burick, Leetonia, retiring six years ago. Mr. Morris was married March 1, 1886, to Kathryn Giesel who died six years ago.

He was a member of the Knights of Pythias lodge at Baltimore, the Elks lodge of Ambridge, Pa., and St. Stevens Episcopal church, Sewickley, Pa.

He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Lodge, Leetonia, and Mrs. David Uth of Pittsburgh; five sons, James of Alliance, Willard of Sewickley, Howard of Miami, Fla., Leslie and Carl Morris of Leetonia, and seven grandchildren.

Funeral service will be held at the Lodge residence at 2 p. m. Wednesday in charge of Rev. T. P. Laughner, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church. Burial will be in Oakdale cemetery.

Friends may call at the Lodge home Tuesday afternoon and evening.

HALDERSTADT INFANT

LISBON, Sept. 11.—Robert Halderstadt, Jr., three month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Halderstadt of Rogers, died yesterday at the home of Jacob Mellott in Rogers.

Born June 30 in Negley, the baby is survived by his parents.

Funeral service will be held at the Mellott home at 2 p. m. Tuesday. Burial will be in the Mt. Zion cemetery.

MRS. MARY C. SCHAUFNER
 LEETONIA, Sept. 11.—Funeral service for Mrs. Carey Schaufner, 63, who died in Florida Wednesday, will be held at 9 a. m. today in St. Patrick's Catholic church. Burial was in Calvary cemetery.

She is survived by a son, Lawrence Carey, stationed with the U. S. Navy in Florida, and one sister, Mrs. Beatrice Carlisle of Alliance.

Will Dedicate Plaque

EAST LIVERPOOL, Sept. 11.—A tri-state parade of bands, drum and bugle corps and marching units will highlight dedication, Oct. 4, of this city's honor roll, listing the names of 3,800 sons and daughters in the armed forces.

The Joint Farewell association, which arranges sendoffs for selective service contingents, announced only $804 is needed to attain a $3,900 goal in a voluntary subscription campaign to finance the movement.

View Fatal Air Crash

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Sept. 11.—Ernest L. Clawson, 32, a flying instructor, and John L. Stewart, Jr., 17-year-old student pilot, were killed when their plane crashed and burned near here last night.

The accident, witnessed by Stewart's mother and two sisters, occurred shortly after the plane took off.

Supreme Indifference

Completely indifferent and apparently "out of this world," the German prisoner above gazes skyward while a French gendarme and a patriot fighter try, with energetic gestures, to herd him in direction they want to go. German was captured in Brignoles, southern France.

The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie

driving northeastward toward the upper flank of the Siegfried line, which runs to Cleve, close to the Dutch border. The British have made contact with the American First army on their right, and units from the two are heading for Aachen and Cologne.

This push towards Cologne is worth watching. Just beyond Aachen lies the Siegfried line, once that is broken the route leads into great reaches of open country where are many of Germany's greatest war industries. Much of the terrain is good for exploitation by fast-moving tanks. And, whatever, that's on the direct route to Berlin.

The American first army, a wide front and today's reports, cords its liberation of the city of Luxembourg. This place is the capital of the Duchy of the same name. Next on the south comes Two-Guns Patton's American Third army, which is encountering very heavy fighting in the Metz sector where it has driven bridgeheads across the Moselle river. This is another good spot to watch, since the origin city of Metz, which has been in pre-Roman days, stands at another of the gateways into Germany.

Below Patton the American fifth army is driving up the southern France to the Belfort gap, which is the route into the Reich close to the Swiss border.
